

Malus toringo

Japanese Crab Apple

Malus toringo blossom

Malus toringo is a small Japanese crab tree with semi weeping branches that add to its unusual attraction. It was first introduced to the UK in 1856.

This pretty Japanese Crab Apple has glossy dark green leaves that are oval and mildly lobed. During the spring the tree is covered in masses of fragrant, bright white flowers that appear from pink buds.

The Malus toringo also offers interest through the autumnal months, the glossy dark green leaves turn lemony yellow contrasting the bright yellow / orange fruits.

A perfect small multistem tree for the garden, looks great when pruned to an umbrella form.

Plant Profile

Name: Malus toringo

Common Name: Japanese Crab Apple

Family: Rosaceae

Height: 5-6m

Width: 4-5m

Demands: Sheltered or Exposed, All aspect

Soil: Clay, Loam, Chalk and Sand

Foliage: Deciduous

Flowers: White

Fruit: Small yellow / orange

Malus toringo 3.5-4.0m Umbrella CG

Malus toringo

Japanese Crab Apple

The Malus toringo is a valuable tree for the wildlife, offering food for the Bees, Butterflies and Birds.

Malus toringo in Flower 2.5-3.0m CG

Malus toringo Umbrella CG

Malus toringo 2.5-3.0m Multistem Roof WRB

Malus toringo Sargentii CG