

Prunus sargentii 30-35cm girth CG

Prunus sargentii is commonly known as the Sargents cherry. It is native to Japan and was introduced to the United Kingdom at the beginning of the twentieth century.

It is a fabulous small tree with a compact crown. The ovate leaves emerge reddish bronze in colour and contrast beautifully against the abundant single pink flowers. The leaves then turn dark green in summer before unleashing one of the best autumn displays turning fiery orange and red.

This is a relatively fast growing tree which transplants easily and is great for both garden and street plating. Will do best on a free draining soil.

Prunus sargentii 4.5m Multi stem in Autumn

Plant Profile

Name:	Prunus sargentii
Common Name:	Sargents cherry
Family:	Rosaceae
Height:	6-12m
Width:	6-8m
Demands:	Full sun to partial shade in any aspect
Soil:	Well drained loam, clay, or sand
Foliage:	Deciduous
Flowers:	Pink

Prunus sargentii
Sargents Cherry

Deepdale

Prunus sargentii flowers in April, then produces purple black berries which are a favourite of the birds due to their size and colour.

The wood has been used for timber in Japan for many years.

Great for planting in shady areas.

Prunus sargentii 25-30cm girth CG

Prunus sargentii 3-3.5m Multi stem CG

Prunus sargentii Flower