

Viburnum bodnantense Dawn

Bodnant Viburnum

Viburnum bodnantense Dawn multistem 2.0-2.5m

Viburnum bodnantense 'Dawn' is a deciduous shrub celebrated for its captivating beauty and fragrant blossoms. Originating from the Himalayas, this ornamental plant is a member of the Adoxaceae family. 'Dawn' typically reaches a height of 2.0-2.5m, boasting an upright, rounded form with gracefully arching branches.

The plant is renowned for its exceptional winter interest, as it blooms from late autumn through early spring when most other garden plants remain dormant. Clusters of small, tubular pink flowers emerge in abundance along the bare branches. The blossoms gradually fade to white as they mature, creating a stunning gradient effect.

The deciduous foliage of 'Dawn' is dark green and transforms to shades of red and purple in the autumn, providing interest throughout the seasons. This shrub thrives in well-drained soil and prefers a sunny to partially shaded location. Its ability to endure various soil types and climates, along with its alluring fragrance and striking appearance, makes it a cherished addition to any landscape.

Plant Profile

Name: Viburnum bodnantense Dawn

Common Name: Bodnant Viburnum

Family: Adoxaceae

Height: 2.0-2.5 metres.

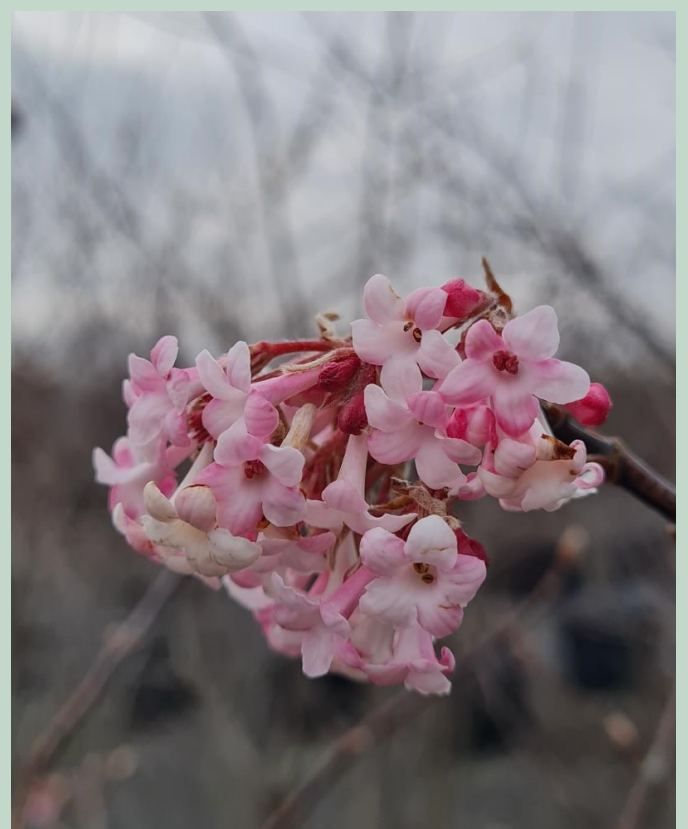

Width: 1.5-2.0 metres.

Demands: Full sun or partial shade

Soil: Moist, well drained soil

Foliage: Dark green leaves arrive in spring time and turn shades of reds and purples in autumn.

Flowers: Clusters of small, tubular pink flowers emerge in abundance and gradually turn white as they mature.

Pink tubular flowers bloom in winter and slowly mature white.

Viburnum bodnantense Dawn

Bodnant Viburnum

Viburnum bodnantense Dawn has been nicknamed 'The Christmas Viburnum' due to its ability to bloom in the winter months. This unique characteristic makes it a standout choice for winter gardens. Its enchanting blossoms have even been known to withstand light snowfall, creating a festive and picturesque scene.

Viburnum bodnantense Dawn 1.5m multistem

Viburnum bodnantense Dawn 1.5-2.0m multistem

Pink flowers bloom in winter